

In the Twinkling of an Eye

Oh, brethren, hear the truth divine,
Flesh and blood won't cross the line.
Corruption fades, it cannot stay,
In God's eternal, holy way.
A mystery unfolds, behold the sight,
We'll change in a moment, in glorious flight.
At the last trump, the heavens will sing,
The dead will rise, new life will spring.

In the twinkling of an eye, we'll rise,
With the trumpet's call, we'll touch the skies.
Corruptible no more, we'll wear the crown,
Immortality's ours when the Lord comes down.
Death is swallowed, victory's won,
We'll shine forever with the Holy One.

Don't sorrow for those who sleep in peace,
Their hope in Christ will never cease.
For Jesus died and rose again,
And those who rest, He'll raise with Him.
The Lord descends with a mighty shout,
Archangel's voice will call us out.
The dead in Christ will rise to soar,

To be with Him, evermore.

In the twinkling of an eye, we'll rise,
With the trumpet's call, we'll touch the skies.
Corruptible no more, we'll wear the crown,
Immortality's ours when the Lord comes down.
Death is swallowed, victory's won,
We'll shine forever with the Holy One.

Our hope is blessed, our Savior near,
His glorious Rapture will soon appear.
Our bodies vile will be transformed,
Like His own glory, forever adorned.
Sealed for redemption, we wait and pray,
Groaning for freedom, that glorious day.

In the twinkling of an eye, we'll rise,
With the trumpet's call, we'll touch the skies.
Corruptible no more, we'll wear the crown,
Immortality's ours when the Lord comes down.
Death is swallowed, victory's won,
We'll shine forever with the Holy One.

So comfort each other with words of grace,
Look to the heavens, seek His face.
For in the clouds, we'll meet our Lord,

Forever with Him, our hearts will soar.

In the twinkling of an eye, we're free,

With Christ our Lord for all eternity.
