

Ephesians 3

Paul, a prisoner for the Lord's embrace,
Bound for the Gentiles, sharing His grace.
God's mystery unveiled, His truth to impart,
A revelation burning deep in his heart.

Oh, the grace of God, so freely given,
To the Gentiles called, to join in His vision.
Fellow heirs in Christ, His promise we share,
By the gospel's light, His grace we declare.

In ages past, the secret was sealed,
But now through the Spirit, it's fully revealed.
Apostles and prophets, His truth they proclaim,
The Gentiles and Jews, united the same.

Oh, the grace of God, so freely given,
To the Gentiles called, to join in His vision.
Fellow heirs in Christ, His promise we share,
By the gospel's light, His love we declare.

Though he's the least, His grace lifts him high,
To preach His riches that never run dry.
The mystery unfolds, God's plan from the start,

His wisdom shines through, to every heart.

To powers above, the Church will display,

God's manifold wisdom in glorious array.

With boldness we stand, through faith in His Son,

His eternal purpose forever is won.

Oh, the grace of God, so freely given,

To the Gentiles called, to join in His vision.

Fellow heirs in Christ, His promise we share,

By the gospel's light, His joy we declare.

From the dawn of time, His plan was concealed,

In Christ, the Creator, His truth is revealed.

With confidence bold, we stand in His might,

Proclaiming His mystery, His love, and His light.
